IBS in Strategic Partnership with IDMR for MRO Solution

Trivandrum, July 03, 2013: Leading IT solutions provider to the global aviation industry, IBS Software has entered into a long-term strategic partnership with IDMR Solutions, New York for enhancing its IT solution for MRO operations. The partnership will see integration of IBS' iFlight MRO solution with IDMR's InForm suite of Task Card and Document Management Solutions. IDMR Solution is one of the leading technical document management services company in the world helping some of the leading airlines reduce costs by standardizing document management. iFlight MRO is a web-based airline maintenance and engineering software from IBS capable of being offered on SaaS mode.

Technical documents, the primary source of aircraft, engine and component reference information, need constant revision in line with changing MRO procedures and regulatory requirements. This increases complexity and manual intervention as documents are often stored in multiple places and disparate automation tools are used for record keeping. Therefore, a centralized and integrated approach to Technical Documentation Management is required to streamline record-keeping processes, maintain version control and reduce information inaccuracies. The partnership between IBS and IDMR will result in a seamless integration of Task Card Management & OEM Document Management between iFlight MRO and InForm and brings to the table a compelling end-to-end IT solution to the MRO ecosystem of the global aviation M&E Industry. Hard copy manuals will be rendered obsolete, significantly reducing paper works. The comprehensive Technical Documentation Management System would help airlines, manufactures and third-party maintenance providers reduce costs, enhance productivity and improve efficiencies.

"We are excited about this partnership with IBS, our joint solution will bring cutting edge technology to the M&E arena. The combination of M&E and Document Management software will provide Airlines and MROs with a single integrated solution to help maximize efficiencies.", Israel Revivo, President/CEO IDMR Solutions Inc.

"After an intense evaluation process, we have zeroed in on IDMR Solutions to augment our IT offering for aviation maintenance and engineering. The synergy we will achieve through the partnership will help us serve our customers better and position us as the preferred solution provider for the global MRO industry", said Sankalp Saxena, Head of Aviation Operations Services, IBS.
